UCD School of Veterinary Medicine

“Gender (in)equality starts with yourself.”

I graduated from the University of Utrecht with a Bachelor of Veterinary Medicine in 2004. I obtained my PhD from UCD in 2010 in the area of early embryo development in cattle and was appointed as Lecturer in Clinical Reproduction in August of the same year. I am a diplomate and the current president of the European College of Animal Reproduction (ECAR). I teach clinical reproduction of all species as well as farm animal medicine on both the veterinary medicine and veterinary nursing degree programmes in UCD. Outside of work I'm actively involved in the weekly organisation of one of the Dublin parkruns and participate in as well as organise triathlon training and competitions.
